

FIVE PERISH WHEN HOUSE IS RAZED

SENATOR DAVIS CLEARED BY PROBE

LAST OBSTACLES TO SENATE REMOVED BY COMMITTEE REPORT

Expenses Excessive But Corruption Is Not Sustained

WASHINGTON, March 3.—Doubt regarding the right of Senator James J. Davis (R) of Pennsylvania, to his seat was virtually dissipated today when the long awaited report of the Nye senatorial campaign investigation committee, on the Pennsylvania primary and election campaigns, was made to the senate. The junior senator of the Keystone state was absolved of all charges of corruption, but the majority declared the ticket headed by the former labor secretary had involved excessive expenditures.

Senator Patterson (R) of Missouri, in a minority report, said the report, signed by Chairman Nye (R) of South Dakota, and Senators Duff (R) of Vermont, Duff (R) of Washington, and Wagner (R) of New York, placed the total expenditures spent for the Davis-Brown ticket in the primary and election campaigns, at $1,117,619.29. In the primary campaign alone, the Davis-Brown ticket spent $622,928.39, the majority found.

Patterson, in his report, incorporated in his conclusions, parts set out of the final draft of the majority report.

Davis was "lawfully chosen and elected," and there was no evidence before the committee "which could in any manner affect the qualifications of Senator Davis as a member of the senate of the United States," Patterson insisted. The majority report said the committee regarded the primary expenditures as "excessive and inimical to the public interest, whether such sum is expended on behalf of one candidate or a group of candidates in any primary election, and could not be permitted without most serious consequences to the nation." Regarding the contention in Davis' behalf, that the majority report said he was chargeable with only a small per cent of the committee did not "feel called upon to attempt the impossible task of determining the amount of expenditures to be allocated to each individual candidate." (There were seven candidates on the Davis-Brown ticket.) "In any event," the report said, "your committee does not regard it as material whether an excessive expenditure is made on behalf of a single candidate or a ticket comprising numerous candidates."

Inferentially Patterson chided the committee for changing its report without holding "serious hearings or developing new facts." He declared a careful analysis of the testimony disclosed "there is no evidence x x x which reflected in any manner upon the personal integrity or honesty of Senator Davis in private or public life or in his conduct in either the primary or general election."

"The only question which might be raised," Patterson said, "is one of constructive responsibility on the theory that Senator Davis should be held for all expenditures made on behalf of the ticket in the Republican primary made up of seven candidates, the titular head of which was the candidate for the senate of the United States."

Mrs. Whiteman was given custody of their seven year old son, Paul Jr. The divorce also will receive two life insurance policies aggregating $75,000 and an annuity policy to bring her a return of $12,000 a year.

FAVORED LEGISLATION DIES AS CONGRESS ADJOURNMENT NEARS

WASHINGTON, March 3.—The seventy-first congress, expiring by constitutional edict at noon tomorrow, entered a virtual death coma today while angry factions battled vainly in the senate to enact favored legislation in its dying hours.

The house was calm, passing non-controversial measures and airing political views, but the senate staged a furious struggle to get several important bills enacted before adjournment. The senate began its next to last session, with senators tired and sleepy following a preceding sixteen-hour session that lasted until the wee hours of this morning.

An all-night session was attempted by administration leaders, spurred on by the youthful "Boy" LaFollette (R) of Wisconsin. In an effort to secure passage of the vestal copyright bill, it lasted until 3 a. m. this morning, while opponents of the measure cried out against "steamroller methods" and protested against the bill being "railroaded" through the body.

The senate faced a tumultuous finale with sponsors of four important bills battling each other to get their measures enacted. Aside from the copyright bill, advocates of a bill slashing immigration quotas by 90 per cent for two years, of the Capper oil embargo bill and of a proposal to appropriate $100,000,000 for unemployment relief, all were insisting upon action on their favorite measures. It was entirely likely that all four bills would be killed in the struggle.

On one occasion, early this morning, Senator Reed (R) of Pennsylvania, sought to substitute the immigration bill for the copyright act. He lost by a landslide vote and under a ruling by Vice President Curtis, likewise lost a privileged spot previously held by that bill. He thereupon threatened to have Curtis' ruling reversed by the senate.

The house also held a night session, lasting until 11 p. m., but it was peaceful. Scores of bills, minor in character, were passed, with but little debate and no controversies.

Two bills, already enacted—the Norris bill disposing of the Muscle Shoals project after ten years of controversy and the Wagner bill, setting up federal employment agencies—meanwhile attracted interest, while house and senate awaited President Hoover's approval or veto of them. If the President vetoes these bills before noon, Congress will attempt an effort to make them law by the time the session adjourns.

Three other bills were in conference.

FARMERS VICTORS IN GALEHOUSE BILL

COLUMBUS, O., March 3.—Farmers claimed an important victory in the general assembly today when the senate committee on agriculture recommended out for passage the Galehouse bill to regulate the color and tint of oleomargarine.

Submitted to the legislature by Representative D. W. Galehouse (R) of Wayne county, the bill attempts to regulate the use of palm oil margarine, which farmers told the committee is a tropical product which looks so much like country butter that it even baffles housewives.

Already passed in the house, sanction of the bill in the senate committee, backers said, is equivalent to passage in the senate.

GOVERNOR TARGET OF ATTACK ON FAILURE TO PRESENT PROGRAM

Plans For Improvement Of Welfare Matters Are Requested

COLUMBUS, O., March 3.—The Republican-dominated state senate today prepared to command Democratic Governor George White to hurry up his promised state welfare improvement program.

Declaring that the 89th general assembly is half-way through a normal session and is still without any definite word from the governor on the important problem of welfare institution improvements, Senator Earl R. Lewis of St. Clairsville, majority floor leader, last night introduced a joint resolution calling on Mr. White to submit his program.

A two-thirds vote being necessary to suspend the rules to get an immediate roll call, senate Democrats last night were able to delay action on the resolution, but when it comes up for a vote tomorrow as a regular order, with only a majority necessary, they will no longer be able to block it, Republicans felt today.

"This resolution is designed so that we may know that the welfare matter is having attention," Senator Lewis explained, when he introduced the resolution. "It is a declaration of intent, and it is a declaration of intent that the governor has not given us a means of arriving at this cost," he said.

"If the governor has not arrived at a program, well and good; we shall wait—two weeks or a month or two months, but we'd like to know," he added.

"It is not for the best interests of the state that we continue here indefinitely," he complained, "because of the serious situation in the welfare institutions themselves."

The only thing that prevents violence at the Ohio penitentiary, he said, "is the frowning muzzles of machine guns."

Democrats, principally De Armond, William A. Greenlund of Cleveland and D. J. Gunsett of Van Wert, hurried to Mr. White's defense.

Terming the resolution an act of discourtesy, equivalent to "telling the governor to hurry up," Greenlund told Republicans that the governor and his welfare director, John McSweeney, have been busy drawing up their bond issue bill for several weeks.

Seeing no need for immediate balloting on the resolution, Senator Gunsett said that it served its purpose when "it gave Senator Lewis a chance to make this concise speech."

"Sixty days isn't long enough to find yourself," De Armond said in the governor's defense. "Besides, we now have a governor with vision who knows something must be done over a period of years," he added.

Strict party lines were followed on the vote for suspension of rules to act on the resolution immediately and observers expected the same to happen tomorrow when the roll call is held.

MYSTERY VEILING DISCOVERY OF GIRL

MONTEREY, Cal., March 3.—Authorities today expected to clear up the mystery which surrounds the appearance of Edna May Cooper, film actress and aviatrix, in a hospital here suffering from injuries she apparently sustained during her recent disappearance.

Complaining of a loss of memory and nervous shock, the co-holder of the women's endurance flight record asked for medical assistance at the hotel where she had been registered since Wednesday as "Caroline Hope."

Dr. Hugh Dormody found she was suffering from bruises on her head and right thigh and took her to a hospital. The district attorney's office as well as police officials began an investigation to learn if the screen actress had met with foul play since her sudden disappearance last week from her mother's home.

DEMOCRATIC PARTY EXPECTED TO AVOID WET COMMITMENT

Opposition Crystallizes As New York Joins Opponents

WASHINGTON, March 3.—Democratic atmosphere was loaded with tenseness and suspicion today as party leaders began to drift into the capital for Thursday's meeting of the Democratic national committee.

Under the circumstances, it is considered extremely doubtful if any effort will be made to commit the national committee to any anti-prohibition declaration, although such a commitment is reported to be very near the heart of Chairman John J. Raskob.

Chairman Raskob has never admitted any intention of seeking to put the national committee on record against prohibition. Neither has he denied it. But in the silence and the conflicting rumors there has developed an opposition to such a project that is so widespread and so bitter that it seemed today that if he had such an intention it will have to be abandoned.

Virtually every southern representative is opposed to the national committee taking any stand on prohibition. To the south's opposition today was added that of New York—of all places. No one questions the wisdom of the New York Democracy. The fact that New York is willing to go along with the southern drys in opposing any action by the national committee is a significant commentary upon the whole situation.

The action of the New York state committee in memorializing the national committee to ignore the prohibition controversy is a significant, too, in throwing light on the long-remembered split between Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt and the Raskob administration of party affairs.

Gov. Roosevelt's friends have long felt that the national chairman was antagonizing to his presidential aspirations. They credit him with a desire to nominate Owen D. Young next year. Right or wrong, this feeling has engendered a very apparent atmosphere of coolness between the Roosevelt and Raskob factions of the party, and the action of the New York state committee yesterday—which Roosevelt controls—was only one manifestation of it.

Where ex-Gov. Alfred E. Smith stands in this situation is a matter of keen speculation outside the two camps. Chairman Raskob is one of Gov. Smith's closest friends. There is also a strong bond of friendship between Smith and Roosevelt.

In this controversy over whether the national committee should or should not take a stand on prohibition, Smith apparently has taken a neutral position.

VERMONT VOTERS CHOOSING SENATOR

MONTPELIER, March 3.—Vermont voters went to the polls today in a special primary election to choose one of two Republican candidates for the United States Senate nomination.

The Republican candidates are Frank C. Partridge and Warren R. Austin. The winner is regarded as certain to replace the late Frank L. Greene, inasmuch as the Republican nomination is tantamount to election.

Stephen Driscoll, a democrat, is running on an anti-prohibition platform.

POLITICAL BICKERING IN WAKE OF NEW GOVERNMENT IN PERU

LIMA, Peru, March 3.—Political bickering replaced military strife between northern and southern factions today when dissension arose over the personnel of the new provisional government chosen to succeed the short-lived Sanchez Cerro regime.

It is understood here that the southern junta, which launched its rebellion two weeks ago and has retained control of Arequipa ever since, demanded inclusion of their

GENERAL JADWIN SUCCUMBS

GEN. EDGAR JADWIN

BALBOA, C. Z., March 3.—The body of Lieut. Gen. Edgar Jadwin, chairman of the inter-oceanic canal commission who died suddenly last night, will be taken aboard the army transport Saint Mille today, to be returned to the United States for burial.

He died at Gorgas Hospital at 7 p. m. after suffering a stroke of apoplexy while in conference with army engineers. He was 65 years old and a native of Honesdale, Pa.

General Jadwin arrived here some ten days ago as head of the commission charged with investigating the proposed Nicaragua canal route as well as the possibility of making the Panama Canal a water level canal.

General Jadwin had a remarkable career, crowded with achievements as soldier and builder that brought him world recognition.

CUSTODIAN IS SHOT TO DEATH BY RACKETEERS

Victim Of Machine Gun Attempting To Pre- vent Bombing

CHICAGO, March 3.—Sprayed with a volley of machine gun bullets when he attacked a gang of five men as they were attempting to bomb an alleged gambling house in Blue Island, William Mayer, caretaker of the resort, was shot to death today.

Another man stepped in the line of fire and was shot through the head and seriously wounded before the machine gunners escaped. Hilario Rodriguez, 35, whose jaw was shattered by bullets, happened on the scene as the gangsters were lighting the bomb fuse. He was stunned by a blow from a revolver and hurled into a coal chute beneath the resort and the sputtering bomb was thrown in on top of him.

Mayer, aroused by the commotion outside, emerged from the building and opened fire on the gang as they were returning to light the bomb fuse when it failed to explode.

Two men stepped from the bombers' automobile across the street and directed a raking fire at Mayer which riddled the lower part of his body with twenty or more bullets. He fell mortally wounded as Rodriguez emerged from the coal chute. The Mexican was hit once and fell, seriously wounded. He may recover, physicians said.

DIRIGIBLE BACK IN LAKEHURST HANGAR

LAKEHURST, N. J., March 3.—The dirigible Los Angeles was back in her hangar here today after traveling 12,000 miles in twenty-six days to engage in war maneuvers in Panama. The ship arrived here last evening after a flight from Parris Island, S. C.

Complete satisfaction with the dirigible's performance was expressed by officials, who said the flight had proved the value of dirigibles in time of war.

PARENTS AND THREE CHILDREN TRAPPED

Fourth Child Leaps To Safety From Window But Suffers Broken Leg; Overheated Stove Blamed For Tragedy

PITTSBURGH, March 3.—Trapped in their beds by raging flames, a mother, father, and three children were burned to death today when fire destroyed their home at Mine No. 1, Russellton, near here.

Another child saved her life by jumping from a second story window, sustaining a fractured left leg.

The dead are: Frank Daniel and his wife, and three of their children, Patsy, Frank, Jr., and Mary. The children were all under ten years of age.

The fire was believed to have originated from an overheated stove. When firemen from West Deer Township and Culmerville arrived, the house was a mass of flames.

HONOR VETERAN

BATAVIA, O., March 3.—Capt. Frank White, oldest citizen of Batavia and last surviving member of its post of Civil War veterans, was joined by members of his family and scores of Batavia friends today in celebrating his ninety-third birthday anniversary.

A birthday party for Captain White was to be held at the home of his son, Judge Charles White, Clermont County common pleas court. Captain White's father, Don White was a pioneer in Clermont County. The captain was a merchant in Batavia for fifty years.

PROHIBITION BILL FACES SEVERE TEST AS VOTE EXPECTED

Defeat Is Predicted By Drys As House Vote Nears

COLUMBUS, O., March 3.—With drys members confidently predicting its defeat, the Nipper resolution proposing repeal of the prohibition amendment to the state constitution was expected to be put through the legislative grist mill late today.

The measure, occupying a place on the house calendar, will probably reach a vote on the question of adoption sometime this afternoon.

Under the rule of the legislature, a three-fifths vote of the house membership, or at least 77 of the 125 members of the lower legislative branch, must support the resolution to insure its adoption.

The outlook for the bill was gloomy as it was put into its hazardous course. Even Rep. Louis Nipper (R) of Cincinnati, its author, was among those voicing apprehension over the measure's fate.

Defeat of the Nipper resolution without a doubt sound the death-knell for practically all proposed anti-dry legislation pending in the state legislature.

Repeal of article 15, section 9 of the Ohio constitution (the dry amendment) is sought by the Nipper resolution. It provides for submission of the proposal to Ohio voters at the regular statewide election next November.

AMERICAN GIRL IS WED IN DENMARK

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, March 3.—Complying with Danish law, Virginia Booth, daughter of the American minister, was married by civic ceremony to William Vogel of New York today preliminary to the religious wedding at St. Albans Church tomorrow.

The civil ceremony was held at the Copenhagen Townhall, beginning at 10:30 a. m. Only a few family members were present, in contrast to the brilliant gathering scheduled for tomorrow's religious marriage function.

The religious ceremony at St. Albans tomorrow will be an elaborate function, with the Bishop of Fulham officiating. The invitation list included 100 prominent European society names.

VILLAGE MARSHAL RECEIVES THREAT

MARYSVILLE, O., March 3.—A letter in which Marshal George Signer was threatened with "a ride" unless he resigns within five days, today was forwarded to the district postoffice inspector.

The message, which was scrawled in pencil and obviously disguised, stated: "Beware—if you don't resign within five days you will be taken for a ride."

FINISH TESTIMONY IN DAUGHERTY CASE AND CLIMAX NEARS

Counsel Arguments And Court's Charge Are Being Made

WASHINGTON, C. H. O., March 3.—The climax in the trial of Mal S. Daugherty on charges of fraud in connection with the operations of the defunct Ohio State Bank of which he was former president, was rapidly approaching today as both state and defense counsels prepared to present their arguments for and against conviction.

Testimony that $479,676.56 was deposited to the credit of Daugherty's personal account was presented by the state in rebuttal testimony today.

Cecil Hall, expert accountant, gave this amount as the total Daugherty deposited during the time the now-defunct banking institution was open from April 1, 1928 to May 12, 1930. Daugherty had previously testified that his income was between $29,000 and $38,000 a year.

Three hours probably will be consumed for the closing statements of the opposing attorneys. Another hour will be taken up by the court's charge to the jury. And after that, the fate of Daugherty, brother of Harry M. Daugherty, former general in the administration of President Harding will be placed in the hands of twelve tried and true men.

Unless arguments take longer than expected, the jurors who for four weeks have been listening to the technical details of the bank's collapse, will receive the former banker's case sometime Wednesday.

Daugherty's defense rested Monday afternoon following completion of cross-examination of Daugherty by Special Counsel Louis J. Schneider. The defense rested on condition, granted by Judge Charles Bell, that it could, upon motion, ask Daugherty other questions it deemed necessary after a night of deliberation.

As the state's cross-examination of Daugherty neared its close Monday, Schneider drew from the former bank president an admission that he had never paid a cent on his own indebtedness to the Ohio State Bank from the time it was formed by a merger of two other institutions to the day of its failure two years later.

Previous testimony had brought out that loans made to the named banker's wife, under the name of L. H. Daugherty, also had never been paid. Notes to Mrs. Daugherty, according to evidence, totaled $42,100.

ELEVEN DIE IN THEATER FIRE

Mexico City Ruins Yield Victims

MEXICO CITY, March 3.—The fire-blackened ruins of ancient Teatro Principal had yielded eleven bodies today, but it was feared that more victims would be found.

The old playhouse, built in the eighteenth century by monks for benefit performances, was swept by flames early yesterday at the close of the midnight performance. The smallness of the remaining crowd and the quick work of the firemen averted a major catastrophe.

The fire broke out in the midst of a dance by a group of Mexican chorus girls, who fled to the street. In the resulting stampede by the audience, at least a score were injured.

A short circuit caused the blaze.

She has been director of the Crosley Homemakers for almost a year. Mrs. Mary Kyle Kessler has been appointed to fill the vacancy caused by Miss Fisher's resignation. Mrs. Kessler has been secretary to John L. Clark, general manager of WLW and WSAI, for two years.

HENRY WALSH MADE RESIDENT ENGINEER IN CLINTON COUNTY

Appointment of Henry W. Walsh, Xenia, as resident engineer of Clinton County, effective immediately, was announced Monday by O. W. Merrell, state highway director.

Positions of resident engineer and county surveyor in Clinton County have, during the last thirteen years, been combined, but under the new arrangement they are to be separated.

Mr. Walsh formerly served as division engineer for division No. 8, including Clinton County, under the administration of G. F. Schlesinger, former Xenian and former state highway director.

A native of Greene County, Mr. Walsh completed his engineering course at the University of Dayton, and for a time after graduation was associated with both the Dayton city engineer's office and the Montgomery County surveyor's office.

In 1920 he became connected with the surveyor's office of Greene County and served two and a half years in this capacity, supervising maintenance of county highways.

Later he was appointed district superintendent of maintenance with the division of highways, having charge of Clinton, Greene and Warren Counties, and held this post a year before being appointed to be first assistant to Division Engineer H. N. Nunlist, a position he held for three and one-half years before being selected as Nunlist's successor.

While serving as division engineer, Mr. Walsh was responsible for a number of highway improvements in Clinton County, including construction of a new bridge at Cuba, and officials of that county hold him as an official and an associate.

He has signified his intention of maintaining his residence in Xenia.

Since being succeeded as division engineer by a Republican appointee with the change of administration, March 1, 1929, Mr. Walsh has been doing engineering work in this locality for the city, county and state for the last two years.

MUNICIPAL COURT OPERATED AT PROFIT CLERK'S REPORT SHOWS

The Xenia Municipal Court, which was created by an act of legislature and began to function January 1, 1930, showed an operating gain of $2,290 during the first year of its existence, exclusive of the cost of boarding city prisoners in the county jail, it is revealed in the first annual report prepared by City Auditor Harry A. Higgins, clerk of the court.

When the cost of feeding prisoners is charged against the court, there remains a balance of about $300, this amount being estimated because the exact expense of boarding prisoners in 1930 is not available, although it is believed to aggregate $2,000.

During the year the tribunal, presided over by Judge E. Dawson Smith, handled a total of 787 cases, including 430 civil actions, 180 city criminal cases and 177 state criminal cases. The city in 1930 derived $4,407.51 from fines and costs in all criminal cases and realized $834.20 from the civil division of the court.

The clerk's report embraces total fines, penalties, fees and costs collected by the court during the two-month period.

Of the 357 cases filed in the criminal branch of the court, including 177 state and 180 city cases, a total of 326 were disposed of during the year, leaving thirty-one cases pending. During the same period, 430 civil actions were filed, of which 376 were disposed of, leaving fifty-four still pending.

Collections in criminal cases totalled $6,350.98 and costs collected

STOMACH UPSET

Get at the real cause. That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets help arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, people rarely suffer from indigestion and stomach troubles.

Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested foods? Try Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel. Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound. Know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramps or pain. All druggists. 15c, 30c and 60c. Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief. Eat what you like.

ed in civil actions amounted to $834.20, a total of $7,185.18.

Expenses incurred, chargeable to the court, in 1930, include an item of $305.24 for furniture and fixtures and part of the stationery, and the clerk points out this cost should rightfully be allocated over a period of years, since this was an initial cost made necessary in setting up the court, and will not occur this year.

The actual cost of feeding city prisoners in the county jail does not appear in the report inasmuch as this is an expense item chargeable to the safety department.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

What? know ye not that your body is the temple of the Holy Ghost which is in you, which he have of God, and ye are not your own? For ye are bought with a price; therefore glorify God in your body, and in your spirit, which are God's—I Corinthians, viii, 19, 20.

DECISION SQUELCHED

In reversing the decision of Judge William Clark, of New Jersey, who recently questioned the validity of the Eighteenth amendment because it was ratified by the legislatures of the states instead of by popular vote, the supreme court of the United States did what the whole nation confidently expected it to do.

The decision of the high tribunal that the amendment was adopted in a proper way and therefore is valid, is unanimous, final and emphatic. And the conclusion of the case leaves the average man more than ever amazed at the twisted maze of argument through which Judge Clark arrived at his absurd contrary idea.

The blasted decision of the New Jersey federal judge will remain in memory as a curious and rather instructive example of the lengths to which tortuous ingenuity may be employed in order to arrive at a fallacious conclusion from premises which point so plainly to a sound one that "a way faring man through a fool" need not err.

One sentence uttered by Judge Roberts in speaking for the supreme court deserves to be emphasized. This is the statement that "the constitution was written to be understood by the voters." If erudite lawyers and jurists would remember that and would make their arguments and rulings accordingly a great deal of trouble and confusion could be avoided from time to time.

MARRIED TEACHERS

Dr. William McAndrew, former superintendent of the Chicago schools, emphasized a point which can stand a large amount of attention when he complained that "public education has been too divorced from parenthood," and questioned the wisdom of putting young girls in charge of the task of "straightening out kinks in children, resulting from bad training at home." There is a significant point in the doctor's assertion that "too often the fact that a woman has been successful in raising a family, is the basis for her exclusion from the task of teaching girls to do the same thing."

The day of taboo against the married woman teacher happily has passed, at least that taboo is no longer universally imposed. In some parts of the country she is being tolerated, and in a few places, at least, school boards are commencing to acquire an appreciation of the peculiarly valuable place the right sort of a wife and mother may occupy in an educational system. But a great deal of progress along this line still remains to be made. It will be a very good thing for the public schools of America when the married woman school teacher with a family of children is recognized as a necessary factor in any well balanced teaching staff, and is assigned to special duties for which her experience has fitted her, and which only the exceptional unmarried woman teacher can perform.

Realizing present conditions and having appreciation of real humor, we certainly pulled a laugh when we read that Major Lemuel B. Schofield, director of public safety of Philadelphia was instrumental, the other day, in having an exclusive and wealthy club of which he is a member, raided and much liquor was found. The laugh comes with his explanation "The only way to enforce prohibition is to arrest the big fellows along with the little fellows." Huh, try and do it, Major.

In these days of "efficiency measures" the fellow who is inclined to hit the dumps because he begins getting bald at thirty, may find some consolation in the possibility that he won't lose his job when he begins to get gray at forty.

Just noticed a headline in an exchange which reads, "Leap from ninth floor proves fatal." How surprising.

Cheerful optimists who think the Democrats have a chance in 1932 overlook a lot of things they will have to explain even before their national convention gets down to the wet and dry issue.

The state department, if things go on this way, will have to have printed an apology form (BM 4-11-44) that can be filled out by a clerk and dispatched poco pronto.

BOTH ARE WONDERFUL

Nobody is looking. Nobody can hear him say it. He's far away from the wise-cracking world, so he dares to say what is in his heart. He turns to her on the crowded street, in the white sunshine, and whispers to his girl, "You're Wonderful!"

She doesn't say much. But she smiles and her cheeks turn rose-like in the bright day and she squeezes his arm and whispers back, "You're Wonderful, too."

It's true. Both are wonderful. . . . You might not think so, if you didn't know they are in love. You might say, "There's a nice girl." You might say, "That's a fine lad." You wouldn't know she's wonderful; and you wouldn't know he is, either. But they are—because they're in love.

LOVE ISN'T BLIND

And love isn't blind. It is most discriminating, most magical of things. It sees beneath that surface. It finds the tiny speck of radium in the great dull mass of pitchblende it searches out the vein of gold in the mountain of earth, it finds what we hardly dream is there. It finds a man and a woman are wonderful, and it tells them so.

A young fellow in the crowd, girl beside him, you're wonderful. It's true. But love isn't enough. Love is only the Finder. Love says you are wonderful. Love means "You CAN be wonderful." For Love is just the beginning, that "raw product of life you have heard so much about. You must take that raw product and mould it and shape it and dream over it and build it into something magnificent and beautiful. You must not fritter it away, you must respect it. . . . You do not remain wonderful except by working hard, except by deserving.

THEY STAY THAT WAY

People laugh at that old, dear platitudes of Love, that comes so unbidden to the lips, that comes so sweetly to the ears, of youth and maidens in love. But it's true and these two know it's true. He is wonderful and she is wonderful, and sometimes, O you scoffers, they stay that way. Sometimes, when they are old and gray, a man and a woman who have gone over a long road together are still saying to each other: "You are wonderful!"

Its length was 1,808 feet, and its area 21 acres. Every department of art, science and industry was represented, and it was viewed by more than 6,000,000 persons. Its materials were removed in 1854, and the structure rebuilt at Sydenham, eight miles from London. There the park and grounds cover nearly 200 acres and a permanent fair is held. In 1853 a similar but smaller "crystal palace" was erected between Fortieth and Forty-second streets on Sixth avenue, New York City. CORRECTION

In a recent issue of the Question Box, Virginia was given as the state from which the greatest number of presidents has come. This holds true, but the Question Box omitted the name of Woodrow Wilson from the list. He was born at Staunton, Va. This gives Virginia eight presidents. Ohio is next in line having given seven presidents to the nation.

BENEVOLENT TEXAN

NEW YORK CITY, N. Y.—My friend, the statistician at the New Yorker Hotel, has sent me another screed wherein he tells of what he calls "the largest tip, on a percentage basis, ever given." John Ravatino, midjet-boy at the caravanserie, delivered a fifteen cent package of cigarettes to the room of a visiting Texan.

I now quote the statistician: "Who the dickens are you?" the large Texan demanded.

"I'm a big Brooklyn gangster," John Ravatino, three-feet-six, replied.

"The delighted Texan gave him $20—which is 13.33 per cent of fifteen cents."

Immediately upon receipt of the above I wired the statistician of the New Yorker Hotel, collect, as follows:

"What of it?"

"I'll pass on his reply to the Pew Holders, as soon as it is received."

ANOTHER SCIENCE NOTE:

Some Doc has just discovered why the female of the species chatters faster and more often than the male.

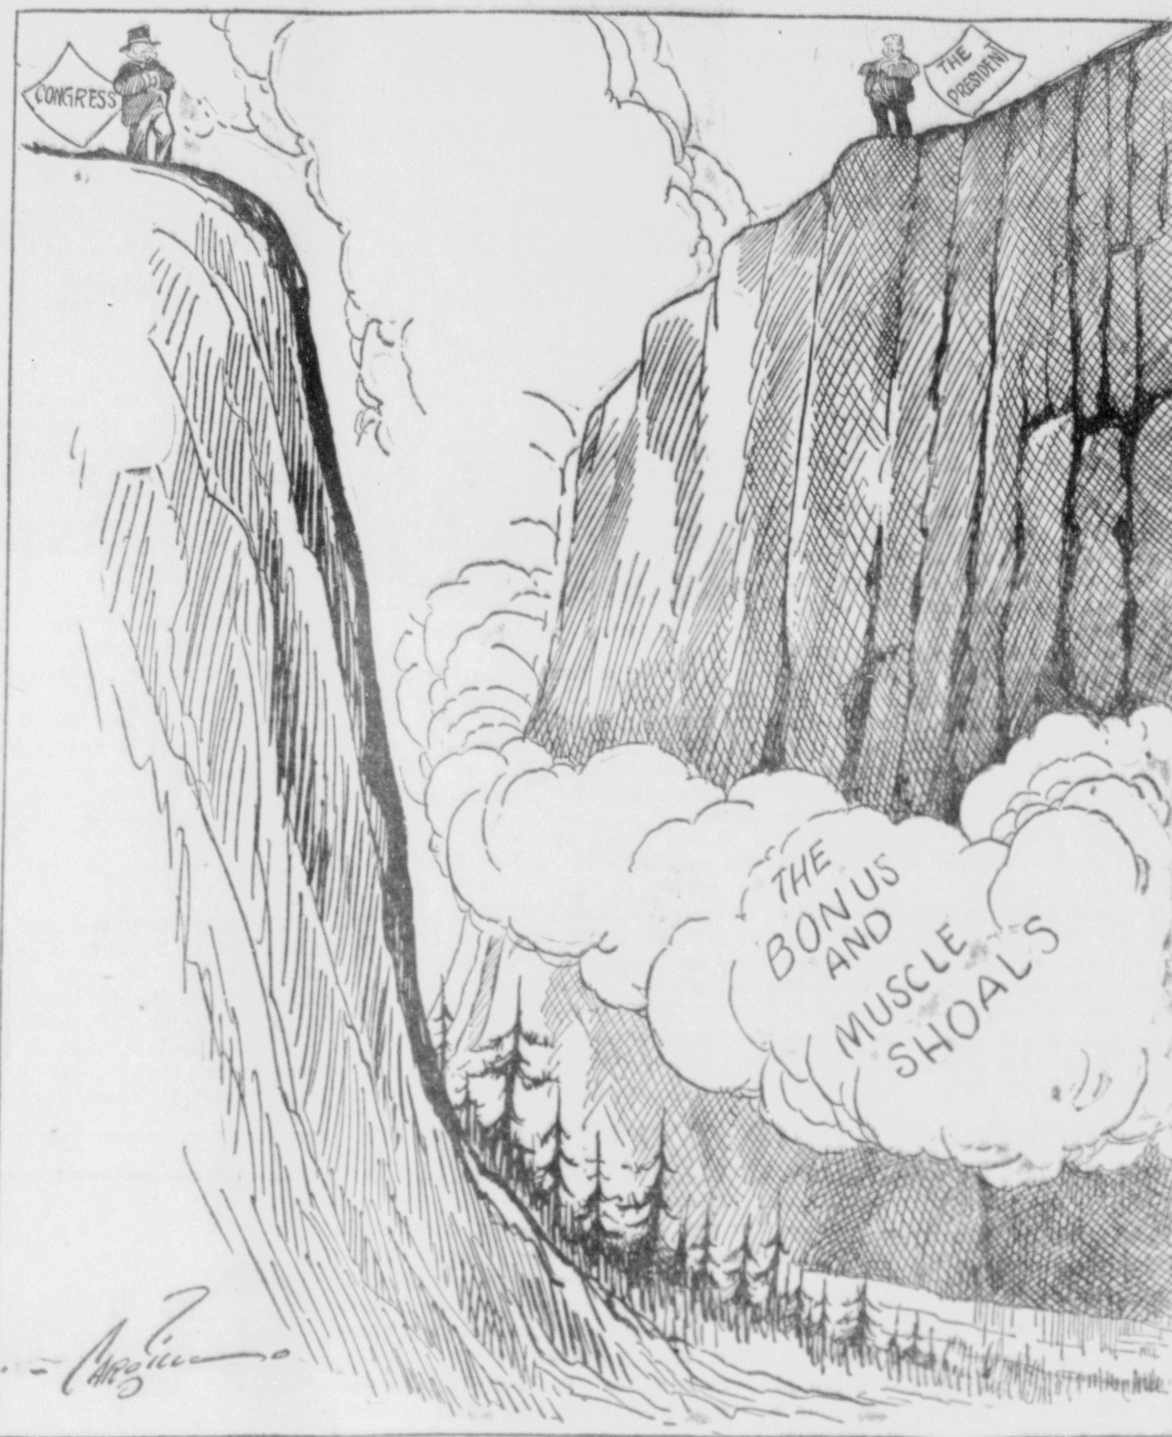

It's because of a difference in her vocal mechanism and not because of inherent empty-headedness, as male jokers have contended, through the ages.

The female vocal mechanism being more delicate than that of the male, works more easily. That's all there is to it.

Not content, however, with lifting the stigma of senselessness from woman's chatter, the Doc takes a crack at male complacency.

The "strong, silent man," he says, is a lot of hokey—a myth—which has served to camouflage sluggish male muscles since time immemorial.

—CHARLES P. STEWART—

WASHINGTON—If ever a U. S. senator faced a terrific fight to hang on to his toga, such a battle is ahead for Senator Gerald P. Nye, when he comes up for re-election next year in North Dakota. The number of powerful enemies Nye has made in recent months is extraordinary.

Already there are plenty of evidences of their preparations to invade his state from as far away as New England, the Rockies and Dixie, in a desperate effort to beat him. Many of them hate him not only politically, but personally.

From the first, the senate's conservatives on both sides regarded Gerald rather askance, as a progressive. Still, he is young, they said for while, hoping time would tame him. In fact, he supported the Hoover ticket loyally enough in 1928.

The G. O. P. management decided to trust him with the chairmanship of the committee on investigation of last season's senatorial campaigning. It was one of the worst mistakes a party's bosses have made in a generation. Instead of trying to win their commendation by a few weeks' work with a whitewash brush, the Dakotan took his assignment seriously. It was a hectic year at best, and the amount of damage he did was appalling.

While Illinois, to be sure, probably would have elected the Democratic Col. J. Hamilton Lewis to the senate anyway, Nye certainly did not improve Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormack's Republican chances.

In Nebraska, too, although the insurgent Senator George W. Norris doubtless would have been re-elected even without Gerald's assistance there need not have been a couple of regular G. O. P. workers indicted for his activities; nor did Bob Lucas' name have been dragged into the mess, involving the Republican national committee and inflating a statewide rumormongering campaign.

Possibly also it was not the Nye committee that chipped into the senatorial election of the Colorado senator, but the committee had clipped into this election there; however, it was coincidence.

Thus at least three serious G. O. P. reverses are accounted for, for which the regular Republicans more or less blame the North Dakotan.

In Pennsylvania, notwithstanding Nye's howling about excessive campaign expenditures, ex-Secretary of Labor James J. Davis won the Republican senatorial honors he was striving for, but he took his seat in defiance of Nye's protest and the latter tried for some time to have him unseated.

Moreover, in the course of his inquiry, the Dakota solon heard some story concerning Davis that he considered worth repeating to the Caraway lobby investigators, explaining that it does not appear to be germane to his campaign "probe" but he thinks perhaps it will help Senator Caraway, in the latter's task of fixing responsibility for the use of "influence" to shape legislation. Quite likely it amounts to nothing, but Nye seems to believe it does, and the incident just goes to show how reckless he is in handling what, for all he knows, may prove to be political high explosives.

Conservative Democrats are as angry at Gerald as conservative Republicans. His earlier investigations, in Illinois and Pennsylvania, pleased them greatly, but when he turned his attention to Tennessee and Alabama they pointed out that he was interfering with "states' rights" and vehemently resented it. It is true, he changed no results south of the Mason-Dixon line.

Nevertheless, according to reliable advance information, the report he presently will submit to the senate emphatically is the opposite of flattering to southern electoral methods. He himself predicts an awful roar when Bourbon statesmen read his criticisms of their system.

The principal way in which his foes plan to create anti-Nye sentiment among North Dakota voters is by yelling about the money Gerald has spent investigating. They began making speeches on the subject some time ago.

Originally the senate gave the committee $100,000, which is mostly gone, and recently an additional $50,000 allowance was made. It does sound like a tidy total until one considers that Senator James A. Reed's committee, which conducted a similar investigation of the preceding campaign, spent nearly twice as much—but that is a detail the anti-Nye orators don't mention.

They likewise soft pedal the fact that they are utilizing an expense account which contains a good many typographical errors—as, for example, an item of $90 for telephone calls, which appears as 90 cents in the corrected record.

Nye, though chairman, was not, after all, the whole of the slush fund committee. Some of the time he had as many as four fellow senators with him, plus a staff of stenographers, official reporters and investigators, and when he paid for a meal for this outfit it ran into substantial figures; the speeches giving the impression that he was satisfying only his own appetite.

"Five hundred dollars a month each for investigators!" exclaim the anti-Nye folk in horror. And, truly enough, it probably will be hard work to convince South Dakotans that the senate's standard rate of pay for this class of service is $1,000. It is, but try telling it to a Pembina county farmer

Cornmeal Griddle Cakes—One cup cornmeal, one-fourth cup flour and one-fourth teaspoon baking powder, three-fourths cup spoon salt, one tablespoon sugar, one tablespoon melted butter, one egg, one cup milk. Mix the dry ingredients. Beat the egg and add it to the milk and the melted butter, then pour into the dry ingredients and mix well. Cook immediately, dropping by spoonfuls on a hot griddle; cook on one side until golden brown, and turn on other side and brown.

Rice Pilau (Turkish Pilaf, Risotto, Spanish Rice)—Two thin slices salt pork cut into bits, three fourths cup uncooked rice, three cups hot water, two medium onions cut fine, two cups tomato juice and pulp, one-half cup chopped celery, four tablespoons minced parsley, salt, pepper, paprika. Fry the salt pork until slightly browned. Add the hot water gradually, cover, and cook. Slightly brown the onion in a small quantity of fat, and add with the celery to the rice mixture when the rice is becoming tender. Cook 10 minutes longer. Add the remaining ingredients, place in a greased baking dish, and bake 30 minutes in a moderate oven (350 to 375 degrees F.).

Rice Pilau is often served with creamed or curried meat, or meat warmed in gravy. Numerous variations are made of this dish as follows: Add cooked chopped meat, or grated cheese, before baking; or, omitting celery and parsley, add minced green pepper; or substitute meat stock for water.

Five-Minute Cabbage—One and one-half quarts shredded cabbage, three cups milk, one cup cream or rich milk, two and one-half tablespoons butter, two and one-half tablespoons flour, salt, pepper. Cook the cabbage for two minutes in the three cups of hot milk. Add the cup of cream or rich milk, the blended butter and flour, and the seasoning and cook rapidly for three or four minutes. The result is a crisp vegetable, delicate in flavor and color.

To Detect Sensitiveness To Food

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

If a person has recurrent mysterious attacks of hives or eczema or asthma, he should determine whether a certain kind of food is the cause. He may be allergic as the term is, to some special food.

The most certain way to do this is to have skin tests made. An extract of the suspected food introduced under aseptic conditions under the skin will cause a swelling to form in the skin at the site of the eruption. These skin tests are, however, tedious, uncomfortable and expensive. Another good way, recently proposed by Dr. Rowe, is with elimination diets.

These "elimination diets" consist of foods that are not frequently the cause of allergic diseases. The patient stays exclusively on one after another for several weeks. If none of the looked-for symptoms—skin eruption or asthma or nasal discharge—occur, it may be assumed that these were originally caused by some article of diet not on the list. The patient can then avoid all other foods except those on the elimination diets, which are sufficient to keep him in good nutrition.

The four diets are proposed by Dr. Rowe are as follows:

Diet No. 1. Cereal: rice. Bread: rice biscuit. Meat or fish: lamb. Vegetables: lettuce, spinach, carrots. Fruits, jams and fruit drinks: lemons, pears, peaches. Miscellaneous: sugar, olive oil, salt, gelatin, syrup made from cane sugar, or flavored with maple, olives (unstuffed).

Diet No. 2. Cereals: corn, potatoes. Bread: corn pone. Meat or fish: bacon and chicken. Vegetables: squash, asparagus, pear artichokes. Fruits, jams and fruit drinks: pineapple, apricot, prunes.

Miscellaneous: sugar, corn oil, salt, corn syrup.

Diet No. 3. Cereal: rice, rye. Bread: rye-rice. Meat or fish: beef. Vegetables: tomatoes, beets, string beans. Fruits, jams and fruit drinks: grapefruit, pears, peaches. Miscellaneous: sugar, vegetable oil, salt, gelatin, syrup made from cane sugar flavored with maple.

Diet No. 4. Milk alone for the test period, two to three quarts a day.

The milk diet should be used only in those who have been proved not too sensitive to milk. And it should not be used except for short times. It is intended to test out people who are sensitive to a large variety of foods and with whom it is difficult to place the blame on any one. The method of testing out these diets will be given in detail tomorrow. One of two plans may be carried out. First, a patient may stay on diet No. 1 for a few days and then stop it altogether and go to diet No. 2. He stays on that awhile and then goes on diet No. 3. The second plan is to start with diet No. 1, and then add all the articles of diet No. 2, and then add all the articles of diet No. 3.

Sensitive Soul's Life Is Hard

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

The sensitive soul has, as a rule, a hard row to hoe in this seemingly indifferent world. Folk have no time to take into consideration the fact that this one or that one is likely to have his or her feelings hurt if they are spoken to sharply, or to feel slighted if they are not included in an invitation or their opinion asked on a certain subject.

The one who is looking for trouble and slights always gets them. There is nothing more sure than that.

The "teen age" is unusually sensitive. A boy or girl of this age is almost sure to think they are being discriminated against, both at home and abroad. Normal young people outgrow this phobia—if it amounts to that—as they see more of life and find that they get largely what treatment they think they do. But occasionally it grows on them—mostly through unusual circumstances or environment, and they get a very real phobia that requires a doctor's care to overcome.

TROUBLED L. T. I hope you have read the foregoing. You say in your postscript that you hope you have made your situation as serious as it really is. You probably do not know the true situation, as one who was intimate with your family, but not a member would. You are too close to it. And I could hardly tell how serious it is from your letter with nothing to tell me what the other side of the picture is.

I do not want to seem sympathetic. Even if you are not entirely blameless for the treatment you receive from the other members of your family, you suffer thinking you are a martyr and in not knowing how to remedy things. Later on in life you will be able to look back and see what the truth is, but that doesn't help you now. Make up your mind, my dear little girl, that you are not going to be one of those poor abused mortals whom everybody takes a whack at. They are the world's worst pests. Nobody likes them. Take this for a fact: that people usually treat you as you expect them to treat you. If you are a jolly, happy-go-lucky soul they will give you many things, for everyone needs sunshine.

If you are sympathetic people will tell you their troubles. If you think of others before yourself and go out of your way to be nice to people and see the good in them instead of the bad, they will turn to you and love you. These are the rules of life, not just sayings.

And if you go around saying, "Nobody loves me and everyone is against me," you will find that in time they really will be, and that you will not be welcome in and around. Think it over, Girlie, and decide which kind of a person you want to be. Then BE it.

DOUBTFUL: I usually discourage a girl from doing anything such as you suggest to try to win a young man. It seems to me men prefer to do their own courting, and if the young man shows no interest in you having known you this long, the case seems fairly hopeless. I don't believe he would think that you were joining his church to be near him unless you make it very plain that you are in love with him, or he is a very conceited young person. So if you want to do that, I suppose it is all right. But I advise against it. Maybe if you don't see him every Sunday you will find time to be able to interest yourself in someone else.

O. V. I think you are absolutely right to refuse to go out with this married man. O. V. You don't want to be the cause of another woman losing her home, so stick to your resolution, and more power to you.

Take Monotony From Exercise

By GLADYS GLAD

The female who performs her various daily beauty rites begrudgingly, and with complete disinterest in what she accomplishes, is likely to leave her boudoir with just as sour a face as she entered it. For to be most effective, the treatments entailed in the cultivation of beauty should be sources of pleasure, rather than bothersome tasks.

I'll admit that going through the self-same motions day after day is apt to prove a bit monotonous. But any boredom that there may be in the continuous repetition will disappear, if you put a little thought into making these rites interesting and enjoyable.

I don't blame any woman for lacking enthusiasm in cleansing her face when the jars and containers from which she takes her creams and powders are unattractive and grimy; when she has only ragged old towels for removing her cream and makeup. There's no pleasure in it. It easily becomes a tiresome routine. And what's more, it lacks the sanitation that is present when the toilet accessories are kept in the pink of condition.

The woman who obtains the best results from her beauty rites has, on her dressing table, a spotless little container for the squares of cotton with which she applies her skin lotions and powders. She has an immaculate receptacle for her tissues with which she removes her creams and make-up. And she has a dainty waste paper basket for the reception of these bits of cotton and cleansing tissues immediately after she has used them.

I've always been strongly against the old towel method of removing creams and cosmetics from the skin. Not only do the towels become stained and unsightly, but they do not possess the sanitary qualities of soft cleansing tissues that may be discarded as soon as they are used. The cleaner and more hygienic your cleansing and make-up accessories are, the more chance your skin will have to retain its health and loveliness.

It is needless to say that the daintiness of your dressing table, the attractiveness of your bathroom, will have a stimulating psychological effect on you. Dressing tables, too, are a source of pleasure, rather than bothersome tasks.

SPORT SNAP SHOTS FRAMED by Phil

It may be of interest to know that four teams instead of two will represent Greene County in the Class B sectional state tournament at Springfield this weekend.

The Xenia O. S. and S. O. Home and Bath Twp. High of Osborn, along with Ross Twp. county tournament winner, and Jefferson Twp. runner-up to Ross in the annual classic, will compete against champions and near champions of several other counties in the sectional.

It is with a tinge of regret that the passing of the feminine division of the annual county basketball tournament is noted.

The girls' division has been held annually for the last thirteen years, during which time Bellbrook, Cedarville and Yellow Springs share the distinction of having won the feminine title three times.

Bellbrook girls, however, won the event the last three years in succession, a feat which had not previously been accomplished. As a matter of fact Bellbrook feminine teams have lost only one game during the last three seasons, the present team losing only to Jefferson Twp. during the current playing season. Jefferson's early season triumph must have been due because Bellbrook was able to eliminate the Bowersville fair sex 27 to 13 in the semi-finals of the county tournament.

By virtue of winning the county title for the second successive year, Ross Twp. High now shares with Cedarville and Osborn the record of having won the event three times since the tournament was founded in 1915. Ross also won in 1926.

Jefferson Twp. High of Bowersville is the only county school which has never had the satisfaction of winning at least once in either the girls' or boys' division of the tournament. Both Bowersville teams had their chance during the recent tournament but could not make the grade.

Jefferson girls, with an early season victory over Bellbrook to their credit, had resigned a joint favorite to win the feminine title, but something went wrong somewhere because they lost to Bellbrook in the semi-finals by a sizeable margin.

Jefferson boys surprised almost everybody by reaching the finals. They first beat Cedarville and then swamped Spring Valley and a majority of fans were hoping against hope they would be able to dethrone Ross in the finals, but late decried otherwise. The Ross quintet possessed too much class and as Jefferson had to be content with consolation honors. They should be able to derive a certain amount of satisfaction, however, in the fact they finished second.

Howard Swain, star Ross Twp. center, will be available to the school again next season in basketball. Howard has been voted all-county center for four straight years and will doubtless be chosen for the honor again next year. This is explained by the fact he displayed sufficient ability to earn a regular berth on the Ross team while only in the eighth grade and under some kind of a ruling applying to class B schools is entitled to five seasons of competition.

The Lang Chevrolet Co. and The Hoover and Allison Co. office have basketball teams are engaging in a great private series of games this season, they tell us. The Lang team, fortified by Marvin Putnam at guard, has won all three games played, but the fact an overtime period was necessary to decide the first game, the second was won by 21 to 20 and the third by 27 to 25 testifies the rival teams have been engaging in some heated conflicts. Additional testimony bearing witness to the same conclusion, are the bruises and battle scars displayed by the participants after every game.

SOFTBALL TEAM TO MEET ON THURSDAY

The first definite indication that thoughts of Xenians are turning to the approach of the 1937 softball season here came Tuesday with announcement that a meeting of prospective members of the Graham Paints team will be held at the Graham store on S. Whitman St. at 7:30 o'clock Thursday night this week.

All players desiring to try out for berths on the team are urged to be present and the following players are invited to take special notice: Peters, Kersy, Ev. Parks and "Red" Fulkerson. The Graham Paints had one of the hardest hitting teams in the National League here last summer. Play in local softball leagues this year will get under way the third Monday in April.

HOME JUNIORS LOSE

The McClain High School junior high basketball quintet duplicated an early season victory over the O. S. and S. O. Home juniors by defeating the catalysts in a return game, 21 to 7 at Greenfield Monday night. McClain's halftime margin was 10 to 3, the Home eagles being held scoreless in the fourth quarter. Segner scored the Home's lone field goal of the game.

Buccaneers Draw Urbana High In Tournament

WILL FACE WINNER OF TROY AND GREENVILLE GAME ON SATURDAY

Luck With Central High Is Believed; "Seeding" System Voted Down By Coaches Planning Sectional Meet At Dayton

By PHIL FRAME

By this time it is perhaps generally known that Xenia Central High had, at least in theory, the good fortune to draw Urbana High as its first round opponent in the Southwestern Class A sectional state tournament and will clash with the Champaign County school at 3 o'clock Friday afternoon at the Dayton fairgrounds coliseum.

If victorious over Urbana, the Buccaneers will face the winner of the Troy-Greenville game in the second round at 8:30 o'clock Saturday night, indicating the four-time Miami Valley League champions stand an excellent chance to reach the quarter-final round in the sectional tournament a week later.

Drawings for the opening round in the Class A competition were made at a meeting of the sixteen eligible schools Monday night in the offices of Paul Schenck, city recreational director in Dayton, and Xenia was admittedly more fortunate in the draw than it has been in a number of years.

The Buccaneers are in the third bracket, so favorably placed as to present the possibility of their meeting such strong teams as Chamblaine, Steele, Springfield or Stivers, at least in the sectional tournament this weekend.

The meeting Monday night was expected to be a turbulent one because the controversial problem of whether to "seed" the strongest schools in the draw was up for discussion.

The session, however, turned out to be harmonious, surprisingly so. The seeding system was turned down by an overwhelming vote of 11 to 4, with Chamblaine, Steele, Springfield and Xenia Central as the only schools in favor of the plan. The remaining schools, excepting Urbana, which was not represented at the session, cast dissenting votes after Tournament Manager Schenck, refusing to make any recommendation in the matter, left solution of the question entirely up to the coaches of the sixteen schools.

The "seeding" system, annually a bone of contention in arranging pairings for the preliminary rounds of high school basketball.

ROSS AMONG SEEDED TEAMS IN TOURNAMENT FOR CLASS B TITLE

Greene County Teams Play In Opening Rounds Friday

Drawings for the first round of the Class B sectional state basketball tournament at the Wittenberg College field house, Springfield, Friday and Saturday, and in which thirteen teams representing four counties, including four schools from Greene County, will compete, took place at a meeting of coaches and officials Monday night in the offices of Oscar T. Hawke, Clark County superintendent, at Springfield.

The coaches voted favorably on a proposition to seed the champions of each county in the draw. The four seeded teams in the meet are: Ross Twp., Greene County, Enon, of Clark county; Westville, of Champaign County; and West Mansfield, of Logan County.

The four Greene County teams—Osborn Bath, Xenia O. S. and S. O. Home, Jefferson Twp. and Ross Twp.—will engage in the first four games on the first round program Friday afternoon, tournament play beginning at 1 o'clock when Osborn faces Westville, champion of Champaign County.

At 2 o'clock the Xenia Home cadets meet the Xenia O. S. and S. O. at 3 o'clock Jefferson Twp. runner-up for the Greene County title, engages Enon, Clark County champion, and at 4 o'clock Ross Twp., Greene County champion, clashes with Concord, a Champaign County representative.

Three games, semi-finals and finals, will be staged Saturday afternoon and night. Here is the program for the Class B sectional:

Friday Afternoon

1-1 p. m., Westville vs. Osborn, Bath, first round.
2 p. m., O. S. and S. O. vs. Zanesfield, first round.
3-3 p. m., Enon vs. Jefferson Twp., first round.
4-4 p. m., Ross Twp. vs. Jackson Twp., first round.
5-5 p. m., Concord vs. West Mansfield, first round.

Friday Night

6-7 p. m., Selma vs. Olive Branch, second round.
7-8 p. m., West Liberty vs. Winners No. 1, second round.
8-9 p. m., Winner No. 2 vs. Winners No. 3, second round.
9-10 p. m., Winner No. 4 vs. Winner No. 5, second round.

Saturday Afternoon

10-2 p. m., Winner No. 7 vs. Winner No. 8, semi-finals.
11-3 p. m., Winner No. 6 vs. Winner No. 9, semi-finals.
12-4 p. m., Winner No. 10 vs. Winner No. 11, semi-finals.

Saturday Night

12-8 p. m., E. C. Denton vs. First National Bank, (exhibition).
13-9 p. m., Winner No. 10 vs. Winner No. 11.

CADETS DEFEATED

Engaging in a post-season game on the Home armory floor Saturday night, the O. S. and S. O. Home cadet basketball team bowed to the Springfield K. of P. Home quintet, 31 to 16, the visitors taking an early lead and maintaining their advantage all the way. The contest, not on the original season's schedule, was the last to be played by the cadets before competing in the Class B sectional tournament at Springfield this weekend.

FRESHMEN WIN CHAMPIONSHIP AT CENTRAL BY BEATING SOPHS

By BIRCH BELL

Freshmen basketballers won the annual class basketball tournament by defeating the sophomores 18 to 5 Monday afternoon at Central High gym. The contest was the deciding game of the tourney play as the teams had won an equal number of contests in the two rounds played in the past few weeks.

The contest started out rather slow and looked like a real guarding game would be displayed. Not until the final ten seconds of play in the first quarter did either team score. Luttrell made good on two foul shots for the freshmen just before the close of the opening period to give that team a 2 to 0 lead. The second quarter had been under way but a short time when Luttrell contributed a fielder and another foul for the freshmen. Foley scored a field goal for the freshmen to give them a 7 to 0 lead before Lloyd found the net for a charity shot late in the second period to give the sophs a score.

Cremer opened the second half with a foul shot for the sophs, but little "Red" Hook found the net from the side court to add the only other score of the third period. The freshmen had little trouble in the fourth period and added seven points to their total while holding the sophs to two points. Cremer sank a field goal for the only sophomore score of the period.

The freshmen presented an air tight defense that the sophs could not penetrate. They also played together as a team and forced the sophs to chase them all over the floor without any great degree of success. Hook and Luttrell were outstanding performers in the play.

As it turned out, however, the competing schools could hardly have been paired off to much better advantage even if the seeding plan had been in vogue because Chamblaine, Steele, Xenia and Springfield, the four schools which advocated seeding, drew in separate brackets and will not be required to meet in the first two rounds of the sectional tourney.

The four schools which survive the first two rounds of the sectional this week-end will represent this section in the district finals, also scheduled at the coliseum the following week-end with the four surviving teams from the Cincinnati section.

Competing schools in the Cincinnati section, which will also vote on the seeding plan Tuesday afternoon, are expected to ballot heavily against it in view of the fact Cincinnati High is the only stand-out team in the tourney, the remainder being on a parity, a condition which would make seeding difficult.

The Class A competition will start Thursday night this week with only one game scheduled, that between Bellefontaine and Dayton Fairmont at 9 o'clock. In the same bracket Dayton Chamblaine will eliminate Dayton Kiser at 4 p. m. Friday and the two surviving teams in this bracket will clash in the second round at 3 p. m. Saturday.

The second bracket provides games between Miamisburg and Dayton Fairview at 10 a. m. and Dayton Dayton Steele and Sidney at 11 a. m. Friday, the winners meeting in the next round at 4 p. m. Saturday.

Greenville and Troy will face each other at 2 p. m. and Xenia Central will engage Urbana at 3 p. m. in the third bracket Friday, the survivors meeting in the second round at 8:30 p. m. Saturday.

The fourth bracket will bring together Springfield and Piqua at 7:30 p. m. and Dayton Stivers and Dayton Roosevelt at 9:30 p. m. Friday, the winners battling for survival in the second round at 9:30 p. m. Saturday.

Xenia Central will practice on the coliseum floor for one hour between 2 and 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon, as all the teams are permitted an hour of practice on the court which will be the scene of the sectional and regional tournament in this district.

Urbana High, which will oppose Xenia Central in the first round, is said to have been weakened considerably by mid-year graduation which took several of the school's best players. Earlier in the season Urbana defeated Piqua, 20 to 16 while Xenia beat Piqua 20 to 15 during the season.

Providing the Urbana obstacle is hurdled, Xenia would be called upon to face either Troy or Greenville, two Miami Valley League teams, both of which were vanquished by the Buccaneers by small margins during the league campaign. Xenia triumphed over Troy, 20 to 18 at Troy, and walloped Greenville, 18 to 14 at Greenville.

Xenia will not find Urbana, Troy or Greenville to be set-ups, to these schools would be easier to beat than a lot of other teams entered in the Class A competition.

Coch Walter C. "Pinky" Wilson and Principal F. R. Woodruff represented Xenia Central High at the Dayton meeting.

M'CLAIN HIGH BEATS HOME IN AQUATIC MEET HERE MONDAY

For the second time in two weeks McClain High School of Greenfield, triumphed over the Xenia O. S. and S. O. Home by the narrow margin of 35 to 27 in a return swimming meet staged in the McClain pool Monday night, the winner of the meet not being determined until the final event on the program, the 150-yard medley relay, which was won by Greenfield's team.

Murray Jones, star of the cadet team, accounted for two first places, winning the 100-yard free style and the 100-yard back stroke events. He established a new pool record for the free style swim, his time for the century being 65.5 seconds. He beat Cox, star McClain swimmer, by three yards.

Jones won the back stroke event with ease, having a margin of nearly the length of the 25-yard pool over his nearest rival.

The cadet relay team composed of Marion, Tyrell, McKinley and Jones won the 200-yard relay race to give the Home its only other first place during the meet.

An effort is being made by the Home to arrange a swimming meet with Dayton Roosevelt High here later this month.

Murray Jones, who represented the Home in the finals of the state scholastic swimming meet at Cincinnati Saturday night, did not show to his usual good advantage because of a slight illness, and was unable to finish better than sixth in the 100-yard free-style event in which he was a finalist in the preliminary round at Dayton a week ago.

Pictorial Story of Murder in Which Dead Woman's Handshake Figures

William Frazer

MRS. PHOEBE QUICK STADER

Ira Jensen

Stader

A harrowing tale of shaking hands with a corpse has led to the arrest of William Frazer, 31, at Raleigh, N. C., for the murder of Mrs. Phoebe Quick Stader, 32, former hairdresser of Rahway, N. J.

An odd jobs man, Ira Jensen, told police Frazer, his cousin, came to his home in Rahway and called out, "Meet the girl friend!" As Jensen reached out to grasp the hand he realized it was the hand of a dead woman. Jensen declares Frazer kept the body at his home over night, saying he killed the woman and would kill himself. Frazer when arrested at first denied the killing, then said he had accidentally shot Mrs. Stader and drove with the body to Bowling Green, Va., where he pitched it out of the car. Police say Mrs. Stader had left her unemployed husband and wanted to break off her affair with Frazer because he had spent the $25,000 which he inherited two years ago. They believe Frazer discovered her intention and slew her. The husband, Henry Stader, said he was unaware of an affair between Frazer and his wife. Frazer quit work after inheriting the money, but recently, when his funds gave out, he took a factory job. He says his rifle went off by mistake.

'LAWYER' BEATS BOOTLEGGING RAP

Maybe it was his name that got him out of trouble, anyway, Lawyer Davis, very black, and seven, of Chattanooga, Tenn., won't have to stand trial as the youngest bootlegger in America. The youngster, when arrested in the act of delivering a pint of moonshine for his boss, told prohibition officers he went to school in the morning and plied his trade in the afternoon. His boss, another negro, who sometimes paid him a nickel, and sometimes a dime, for his deliveries, was arrested. Photo shows Lawyer with Capt. Ed Rickets, giant police captain, who made the arrest.

The Girl Artist Whom Fame Found

Painting Is Living to Jack von Reppert Bismark, So She Can't Understand Why All This Fuss Is Being Made About Her and Will Attend an Exhibit of Her Work for First Time in New York

JACK VON REPERT BISMARK SHE OFTEN PAINTS LYING PRONE ON FLOOR

By ALICE ALDEN
NEW YORK, March 3.—Famous at twenty-two, not only as Germany's leading woman painter, but also as one of the most important and individual of the artists of Europe, on a first visit to America with a round of luncheons, receptions and teas, wealthy and an adoring, handsome young husband, and yet apparently indifferent to all save art and domesticity. That is Jack von Reppert Bismark, who has just arrived in New York for her first American exhibition. It is to be at the Balzac Galleries and forty paintings are to be shown. The blond young artist and her husband are staying at the Hotel Chatham. Writers and artists besiege her. And yet she cannot understand just why she is the center of attraction, why she must be photographed and interviewed.

Her work? Why that is part of her. She began to draw when she was a babe. At seven she illustrated the Bible, particularly such episodes as David and Goliath, Daniel and the lions, Noah and the animals in the flood, and episodes in the life of Christ. Then came illustrations of some of Dickens' books, including "Oliver Twist." No vague juvenile scrawlings these, but illustrations that have been included in her European showings.

When Frau Bismark was thirteen, she entered the Berlin Academy. At that great school she remained one year, and then opened her own studio. Success came quickly to the young blond German girl and her work not only attracted the leading art critics and connoisseurs but became in demand by collectors. Then came exhibitions in Paris, London and Vienna, none of which the artist ever attended.

Her trip to America marks not only her first attendance at one of her showings, but her first journey anywhere outside her native Germany. She is glad she selected New York for her first visit to a foreign metropolis. For the first time she has shown an interest in anything removed from her work. New York to her is as exciting as a fairy story is to a child.

Jack von Reppert Bismark has come to America at the invitation of a group of prominent society people, magazine editors and artists. Her great American friend is Lillian Gish, who also represents her favorite feminine type. She already has commissions to paint Miss Gish, Charles Chaplin and Maurice Chevalier.

Hollywood is anxious to meet and entertain her, and if her health permits, she would like to make the journey. Frau Bismark is fragile, an appealing, delicate fragility that is perhaps her greatest charm. It seems difficult to believe that this shy, wistful child has been the subject of innumerable magazine and newspaper articles the world over and that her works are in the possession of some of the leading collectors.

The artist designs all her clothes.

She works intently, generally two weeks at a stretch, day and night. A gramophone plays wild gypsy music for her, and her eight dogs, many of whom she has painted, romp all over the house. She still lives in the house in which she was born and the studio where she began her work as a child. She began to work by sprawling on the floor with her canvases propped up before her and still frequently paints in this position.

She is intensely feminine despite her quiet, shy demeanor. She uses no cosmetics, preferring, she says, to paint a canvas. But she likes makeup on other women, particularly at night.

Her husband is a direct descendant of the famous statesman, Bismark, and is also an artist. He is famous in Berlin as a scenic designer. Their marriage was a real romance. They met when the artist was but sixteen and attending her first dance. A fancy dress party, she came dressed as a sailor. Herr Bismark hailed the sailor familiarly as "Jack" and that is why she changed her name. For when her parents spoke disapprovingly to her about such an early love affair, they addressed her as "Elsa." Her name was Von Wenden. But just the same she was married at seventeen—and since—has been known both to the public and her friends as "Jack von Reppert Bismark." Her favorite masculine type is Ronald Colman, but her husband looks like a composite of a movie hero and a collar and mod el.

A THRILLING MYSTERY STORY + by MILES BURTON

CHAPTER 32
"It's going to be deuced awkward, one way and another," continued Sir Edric, without giving Dick time to recover his amazement. "Pollard is a tenacious devil, and it will take a lot to dissuade him from his opinion. Look here, Dick, is this another of your amateur sleuth stunts?"
"My dear fellow," replied Dick. "I'm floundering helplessly in the dark. Pollard seems to have made up his mind that I went to Ibbotson's house last night. I assure you, on my word of honor, that I didn't, and I know that you'll believe me. But, even if I had done so, I fail to see whence all this storm arises."
"Well, the fact is that the place was entered last night and the Maharajah's Rubies were taken," said Sir Edric quietly.
Dick whistled softly. "Oh, so that's the way the wind blows, is it?" he thinks that I'm the bold burglar. I had a suspicion the other day that he fancied I had murdered the wretched Herridge. But, I say, Conway, are you perfectly certain that the fingerprints on that door-knob are mine?"
"I'm afraid that there's very little doubt about it," replied Sir Edric. "And it's that which makes the whole business so awkward. It seems to me that it'll want a lot of explaining away."
"Well, unless I've taken to walking in my sleep, I can't explain it," said Dick candidly. "The ridiculous thing is that I can't establish an alibi. As it happens nobody that I know of saw me go into my rooms, and the news was deserted when I put my car away. And then there's that curious business about the telegram."
"I don't, at the moment, see what that has to do with it," remarked Sir Edric dryly.
"But I think I do," replied Dick slowly. "Wait a minute, let me try to disentangle this mess. I can't help feeling that this is another move of our humorous friend, directed mainly, of course, against me. He seems to have had a grudge against me ever since our interview, and now he's had the happy idea of enlisting the police on his side. By jove, Conway, he's a fellow worth putting one's wits against!"
"So I have already discovered," remarked Sir Edric. "But I fail to understand how even his ingenuity could enable him to take your hand against your will and press it firmly upon the door-knob of Ibbotson's pantry?"
"No, but what if he took Ibbotson's door-knob and pressed it against my hand?" replied Dick. "By jove, man, I believe I've got it! You remember my telling you of my adventure in that empty house in Creek Street? Well, one point about it strikes me very forcibly, now I come to think of it. The door of the room in which our friend had installed himself was shut, and I had to open it. When I caught hold of the handle I noticed that it was unpleasantly sticky. See the dodge? He had prepared it on purpose, so that it would take a good impression of my fingerprints. I expect that he had had designs on Ibbotson's safe for some time and had fitted the door of the room in Creek Street with a knob similar to that on Ibbotson's pantry. Then, when I'd gone, he took off the knob and kept it by him until the Ibbotson coup came off. Mind you I don't think he knew at the time who I was. He can't have discovered that until he circulated his flashlight photograph. It was just a precaution, in case I proved an unsatisfactory agent. If I had proved satisfactory, and obeyed orders, the door-knob would not have been substituted. In the alternative event, the police would have saved him the bother of getting rid of me."

"I shouldn't wonder if you were right," remarked Sir Edric, picking up the door-knob. "Now I look at this thing closely, it looks as though it had been covered with gum or varnish or something. If that were still wet when you put your hand on it, it would account for the perfection of the imprint. I'll send round to Wapping. If we can't find your fingerprints on the door of the room in Creek Street, your explanation is probably correct."
"I don't see any other solution," replied Dick. "It was a really ingenious trick, you must admit. And look how I was recalled from Somersetshire, so as to be in London when the theft was carried out! Our friend, or one of his agents, sent that telegram, you may bet. And it's that that rather bothers me. As it happens, I told nobody but Alison my address. I didn't even let Jerry Gould know where I was going. Alison isn't likely to have told anybody, except perhaps her aunt or her father; there's no particular reason why she should. That means that our friend has got a man following me about. I wish to heaven I could catch him at it!"
"Perhaps we'll catch him for you," remarked Sir Edric. "I suppose your look-up in the mews was broken into, after you had left the car there. If you're right about the door-knob it is easy to understand how the real thief would prefer to use your car. I think he deliberately waited for the policeman to pass before entering the house, and there was always the chance of the man noticing the number of the car and remembering it. Another useful piece of evidence against you, my boy! I'll send a man to have a look at that look-up."
"I don't suppose that will tell you much," replied Dick. "Our friend has too keen an eye for detail to have broken in. He'll have provided himself with a key which would open it."
"I expect he will," agreed Sir Edric. "Taking it all round, Dick, it's going to be a devil of a job to persuade Pollard of your innocence. I can't very well order him to cease all inquiries in your direction. He would, quite rightly, consider it unwarrantable interference on my part. Besides, he'd think that I was in league with you, and I wouldn't put it past him to evolve the theory that I was the Funny Toff and you were my trusted subordinate. You don't know these chaps like I do, Dick. They value a practical fact like that door-knob more than they do a dozen volumes of theory. Pollard will believe that you took the rubies until he sees definite ocular proof that you didn't. The most that I can do is to give him instructions that he is not to arrest you without my permission."

"Confound the man!" exclaimed Dick. "I suppose he'll shadow me till further orders. Well, it ought to prove amusing. It looks as though I were already being shadowed by the Funny Toff's people, since they seem to know wherever I go. But just think of the astute Pollard having had his suspicions of me so early! That was a pretty cute dodge of the wretched fellow. Well, it's of course, he got a beautiful impression of my fingerprints. And I thought he was merely rather a stupid man, going over ground which had already been covered, days before!"
"It seems a pity you didn't leave the matter to us in the first place," commented Sir Edric. "I admit that you are the only man we know who has succeeded in interviewing the Funny Toff, but, frankly, that doesn't seem to have carried us much further, while it has led to a devil of a lot of complications. Well, there's nothing more to be said now. You had better leave me to make what explanation I can to Pollard. By the way, before you go. Are you proposing to stay in London for the present? I ought, in fairness, to tell Pollard your plans."
"As a matter of fact, I didn't propose to stay in town," replied Dick. "When I rang Alison up last night, she suggested that since I had come up from Somersetshire, I might as well go down and stay at Lestrade Hall. However, if you would rather I remained on the spot, I can put that off."
Sir Edric hesitated. "No," he said at last, "I think, on the whole, that you had better go. You can't take into mischief there, at all events. I'll tell Pollard, and he can take what measures he thinks fit."

The Theater

Here is proof that limelight isn't always the gauge of a star's popularity.

When last year's reckonings were made, Pathe discovered that "Big Money," featuring the comical Eddie Quillan, was runner-up to "Holiday" in financial returns to the company.

As a result the neglected Eddie will receive more attention on the new program. His next story will be "The Kid from Madrid" in which he unintentionally becomes a bull-fighter. Motion picture fans still remember "The Sophomore" as one of the funniest of the college pictures. It came the year before "Big Money" but the praise Quillan won evidently didn't sink in immediately.

Polly Moran's imaginary suspense about her contract is at an end. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer has signed her to a new long-term he has bought into the business with Hawley, he hasn't given up acting and will return to the films anytime he is needed.

After a quick deal for the film rights to "In the Mexican Quarter," Radio pictures have assigned Joel McCrea to play the young Yale graduate hero of Tom Gill's story. McCrea has just finished opposite Constance Bennett in "Lost Love" and is in line for further important assignments at RKO and Pathe. He made a slow start toward film fame, but the willingness of other studios to borrow him, convinced Radio Pictures that he is a find.

Did you know Maureen O'Sullivan draws a sizable income from a chicken ranch in Dublin?

Twenty Years '11- Ago -'31

The great increase in country membership at Trinity M. E. Church has made necessary the erection of additional hitching racks.

Mr. Charles Kolbe, W. Main St. clothier, is the owner of a fine E. M. F. thirty-horse power touring car, which was delivered Tuesday.

An ex-hick team composed of Walker Gibney, Steve Phillips Hivling Stokes and Elmer Kelly will meet the Pastime A. C. team of Dayton at the rink Thursday night.

Mr. Vinton Hull has returned home after visiting in Morrisville and Wilmington.

agreement, the first picture being "Polities" in which she will appear with Marie Dressler.

Polly is one of Hollywood's greatest worries. She always expects to be fired and gloomily doubts she will be able to get a job anywhere else. As a matter of fact she has been with Metro since 1927 and would be signed up by any one of several other studios if she cut loose. It's been sixteen years now since she entered the films and they say Hollywood wouldn't be the same place without her.

Hugh Trevor is a lucky actor who doesn't have to worry about work finding roles temporarily scarce, he has gone back to the insurance business as a partner of William Hawks, who is Bessie Love's husband.

Trevor never intended to become an actor. He went out to sell Richard Dix an insurance policy and Dix talked him into the movies. Shortly he signed with RKO and turned out to be a competent juvenile. In these quiet times, however, even good actors find themselves without work and most of them haven't another trade. Trevor is doubly fortunate because he goes back to the insurance business with valuable connections formed during his acting days. Although

TORCH MURDERER

Details of a gruesome torch murder have been given San Francisco police by 21-year-old Charles Simpson, above, known to have a prison record. According to a confession police say Simpson has made, the youth entered the grocery store of Mrs. Albina Voorhies, bent on robbery, and struck the woman on the head when she recognized him. Then, police say, he set fire to the store after pouring gasoline over the body of Mrs. Voorhies.

FISH AND GAME SOCIETY MAKES PLANS FOR GOVERNOR'S VISIT

The Greene County Fish and Game Association members will meet Wednesday night at 7:30 in the basement of the Court House to make further arrangements for the annual banquet, Friday night, April 10, with Governor George White as the guest of honor.

A place for holding the function will be selected, the sale of tickets will be started and finishing touches given plans for the event.

Officers of the association direct attention to the fact that the banquet will be open to the public as usual and that the $1 charged for membership for one year also pays for one banquet ticket. The officers also urge immediate purchase of tickets so the arrangements committee, headed by W. B. McCallister, may make definite plans with regard to the number of people to be accommodated.

A number of new features is offered the association. Selection of some of these will be made Wednesday night. Included are movie pictures of a rodeo at Calgary, Canada, said to be a succession of thrills, Ohio fish and game pictures and so on. Committees have been appointed as follows:

THIRD DAIRY MEET WILL BE WEDNESDAY

The third of the series of county dairy meetings will be held in the assembly room of the Court House, Wednesday, at 8 p. m., with R. D. Lewis, crop extension specialist of Ohio State University, leading the discussion on "Emergency Hay and Pasture Crops."

The unusually dry summer of 1930 has created a situation in respect to hay and pasture the full significance of which may not be appreciated until the spring of 1931. There have been heavy losses of the spring seedlings of clover, mixed clover and timothy and alfalfa. Such heavy losses will certainly be reflected by reduced hay yields and many farmers will need to sow special emergency crops. These crops include cereals, grasses and legumes and a thorough discussion will be taken up on each of these considering varieties, time method of planting and time of harvesting.
